A King for Israel

1 Samuel 8,9,10

The Israelites wanted a king to rule over them. Samuel warned them against having a king and urged them not to choose one but let the Lord be their king.

But the people insisted and God told Samuel to give them a king.

There was a Benjamite boy named Saul who was tall and strong.

While looking for his father's lost donkeys, Saul and his servant found the seer or prophet who they believed would help them locate the donkeys.

The previous day Samuel, the prophet, had had a vision or revelation from God telling him that the next day he would meet a man from the land of Benjamin. "Anoint him leader over my people Israel; he will deliver my people from out of the hands of the Philistines," God said to Samuel.

When Samuel met Saul and his servant he anointed him and sent him on his way telling him of three experiences that they would have on his journey home.

Samuel called an assembly of the Israelites at Mizpah where the people affirmed Saul as their king.
